Quincy College
Quincy, Illinois

Four year liberal arts college conducted by Franciscan Fathers of the Sacred Heart Province

We dedicate our yearbook to St. Francis Solano, the patron of our college and our chapel. He was born in Spain in 1549. At the age of twenty he entered the Franciscan Order and after finishing studies was ordained a priest. For more than a decade he labored in his native land and held many offices of trust—novice master, choir director, superior and preacher. His charity and zeal won him a reputation for holiness.

St. Francis volunteered for the missions hoping to win the crown of martyrdom among the heathens. When forty years old, he set out for America which had been discovered only fifty years earlier. He worked in present day Peru, Uruguay and Paraguay. Like the apostles of old, his preaching was accompanied by many miracles. He died in Peru in 1610, uttering the words of the psalmists: "I have rejoiced in those things which have been said to me: We will go into the house of the Lord."

Dedication

The Heart of the College

Because of the importance which it has in our college life, we feel it appropriate to feature St. Francis Solano Chapel in the early pages of our yearbook.

Between the feasts of St. Francis of Assisi and Christmas the interior of the chapel received a Byzantine motif. Even the scaffolding, with its interesting patterning, does not destroy the overwhelming presence of the Pantocrator who dominates the chapel.

On the right, His Excellency Bishop Pinger sings a Pontifical High Mass to celebrate the completion of chapel decorations.
